ABOUT OUR COVER ARTIST:

Andrew Faulkner

Andrew Faulkner is a Mill Valley-based painter known for contemporary landscapes that merge architectural structure with bold, atmospheric color. Influenced by a family lineage of artists, designers, and architects, his work reflects both spatial precision and emotional resonance. After a 30-year career in graphic design, he transitioned to painting full-time, bringing a refined sense of composition and mood to his practice. Faulkner's work is represented by galleries in California, Maine, and South Carolina, and is held in notable private and public collections, including commissioned installations at UCSF Medical Center in San Francisco.

EDITORS' NOTE

Welcome to Mill Valley. We're a small town with an outsized personality, shaped by the redwoods, the ridgelines, and the people who choose to put down roots here.

At the Mill Valley Chamber, we work alongside the independent businesses, artists, and organizations that make this place genuinely worth visiting and staying. This Guide is our attempt to capture what makes Mill Valley tick: the market and florists you pass on the way to Old Mill Park, the shoe repair shop that's been there longer than anyone can remember, the sense that creativity and community aren't at odds with everyday life.

Inside, you'll find the best of what's here, including our Must Dos, the experiences that locals swear by and visitors never forget, from the storied tradition of the Dipsea Race to the everyday discoveries in between.

We're grateful to the Marin Convention & Visitors Bureau for helping make this Guide possible.

Whether you're passing through or you've lived here for decades, welcome. There's always something worth finding. So glad you're here.

From first-time visitors to longtime locals

THE FEEL OF THIS PLACE

Mill Valley has a particular rhythm. Just across the Golden Gate Bridge, it moves on its own unhurried time. Locals, artists, families, and outdoor enthusiasts share the same streets and trailheads. Dogs are everywhere and always welcome.

CLOSE TO EVERYTHING

Mill Valley is just off US-101. Or take the ferry to Sausalito or Larkspur, both a short drive or bike ride away. San Francisco and Stinson Beach are 20 to 30 minutes by car. Point Reyes and the West Marin coast are under an hour. Wine country is an easy day trip.

GETTING YOUR BEARINGS

Downtown MV is the heart, with the Plaza, restaurants, coffee, boutiques, galleries, and the route to Old Mill Park. Strawberry Village offers established local favorites and everyday essentials, while the Lumber Yard and downtown are known for independent shops, cafés, and gathering spaces. Tam Junction brings a laid-back, beach-town feel and serves as the gateway to Tennessee Valley and the coast. Miller Ave. connects it all.

WEATHER

Fog and sun often share the same day. It can be cool and misty in town while Mount Tamalpais sits in full sun, just minutes away. Layers are part of the lifestyle.

AROUND TOWN

Most places are a short walk, bike ride, or drive. Parking can be limited downtown, especially on weekends, though street parking and a private lot on Sunnyside are available. Bikes are part of daily life here, with a multi-use path along the Bay toward Bothin Marsh and Sausalito, and rentals easy to find nearby.

INTO NATURE

One of Mill Valley's great luxuries is how quickly you can get outside. Sidewalks give way to dirt paths within minutes, and a network of historic Steps, Lanes, and Paths connects neighborhoods directly to the surrounding landscape. All of it points toward Mt. Tam, the backdrop to daily life and a constant invitation to go a little farther. Cascade Falls is an easy walk through the redwoods. For longer outings, Tennessee Valley leads to the ocean, Muir Woods rewards any time of year (reservations required), and trails range from easy walks to challenging climbs. Widely regarded as the birthplace of mountain biking, Mt. Tam continues to draw riders year-round.

ART & CULTURE

Creativity runs deep here. Galleries, live music, film, and performance are woven into everyday life. Many artists and musicians have called Mill Valley home, and their influence still shapes the community today.

Dogs welcome throughout town and on most trails.

Ferry service from nearby Sausalito and Larkspur.

See inside for Must Dos, local favorites, and more.

We asked local voices what not to miss and what makes each season feel distinctly Mill Valley.

TAM JUNCTION SUMMER

James Henry, Mojo Dojo Karate
mojodojokarate.com

What not to miss:

Start with a boost at Equator Coffees. Food options in Tam Junction Center include Cafe del Sol, Shanghai Kitchen, and Domino’s Pizza, with Hook Fish and The Junction Beer Garden across the street. Behind the Center, Good Earth offers healthy options. Mojo Dojo Karate, PoekieNook, WeeYogis, Mathnasium, and RoCo Dance together offer a body, mind and creative summer camp experience for kids. There’s also Jake & JT’s Fitness, Pilates Evolution and SF Running.

In summer:

Tam Junction comes alive with its walkable paths connecting to nearby neighborhoods. Summer here means outdoor living, with families, dogs, and sunshine everywhere. A highlight in June and July is Creekside Fridays, where locals gather with picnics to enjoy live acoustic music, capturing the relaxed, community-driven spirit that defines Mill Valley.

DOWNTOWN FALL

Ged Robertson

Bootjack | Watershed | Shoreline Coffee Shop
Instagram.com/bootjack_millvalley

What not to miss:

Grab a mint leaf tea from Watershed, beg to poke around Anthony Meier Gallery off hours, read a random poem at The Depot bookstore and slide the book back in place, meatballs and martinis with Jason at la Ginestra, head up Hillside Ave. and hike out onto Blithedale Ridge with a moonlit friend, skip back down and pop into Open Mic at Sweetwater, then night cap with a scoop of vegan ice cream at Angela's.

In fall:

The energy in Mill Valley becomes the most vibrant when our community comes back from their summer travels with renewed appreciation for our downtown, with its many charms. Fall Arts Festival, schools restart, MVFF lights up the Sequoia and we join together in our favorite cafe nooks, in the isles of MV market and chat with shopkeepers, lingering longer in the plaza, sharing our stories and ideas from early morning into the late, warm autumnal evenings.

STRAWBERRY WINTER

Jessica Smith and Kathryn Keown

Hot Yoga Republic | hotyogarepublic.com

What not to miss:

Start at EVO Spa with a glow facial, one of those small luxuries that shifts your whole mood. Then walk to StretchLab and let someone gently work out the tightness you didn't realize you were carrying. Finish at Thep Lela Thai with Thai tea, crisp fresh rolls, and their tangy Tofu Pad Thai. It's an easy, thoughtful way to spend two hours, taking care of yourself and settling in for something delicious.

In winter:

Winter evenings in Strawberry Village feel especially beautiful. As the light fades earlier, the palm trees glow and everything slows down. People wander between small boutiques with no real rush to be anywhere. There's something about the crisp evening air that invites you to stay longer and notice more.

On weekends, we take our dogs to Blackie's Pasture, then head to Strawberry to sit outside with heaters, enjoying a burrito from Hi Tech or dumplings from Harmony as the evening settles in.

MILLER AVE SPRING

Elmo Froemke and Carmen Froemke
Grilly's | grillys.com

What not to miss:

If I had just two hours in Mill Valley, I'd grab a coffee at Equator Coffees, then hike the Dipsea steps to the Sun Trail. A stop at the historic Tourist Club is a must before looping back through Cascade Canyon. If I felt like biking, I'd tune up at Tam Bikes, cruise the mountain, and grab my go-to Grilly's tacos on the way out of town. Yes, after all these years, I'm still not tired of them.

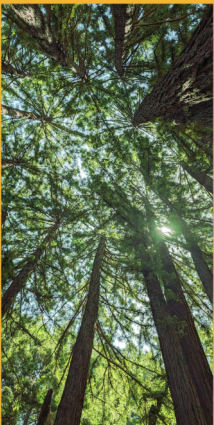

In spring:

I feel very lucky to have grown up in Mill Valley, specifically in Homestead Valley, just blocks from our restaurant. Spring is a special time in our town with creeks and waterfalls flowing and wildflowers popping everywhere. Adding to the magic, trails are just steps from home. An early morning walk on the Pixie Trail or a class at Red Dragon Yoga is the best way to start your day!

SUMMER

Music, markets, and long evenings

Chandler Simpson
CHANDLER GALLERY
chandler-gallery.com

"In summer, Mill Valley comes alive at its center, with often impromptu music drifting from the Depot, families and friends gathering into the evening, and hikers and bikers moving between town and the redwoods. It holds the charm of a small town with a deeply creative, lived-in energy."

Jessica Hurtado
GOOD EARTH NATURAL FOODS | genatural.com

"At Good Earth, we're rooted to Mill Valley in the summer by long, sunny days, peak local produce, and the simple rituals of gathering, cooking, and sharing food."

Camille Esposito
TAMALPAIS COMMUNITY SERVICES DISTRICT
tamcsd.org

"Mill Valley in the summer isn't always the warm, balmy place that fits most summer vibes but there is something kind of lovely about putting on a cozy sweatshirt, with jeans and flip flops and listening to summer music by the Coyote Creek in Tam Valley. The sun still finds a way to poke through and cast its last rays on the creek as the music makes you want to move, kids dart through the crowd and you are surrounded by the smiles of friends and neighbors."

The background of the entire page is a painting by Nance Miller. It depicts a dark, silhouetted mountain peak in the lower half, rising from a dark base. The upper half of the image is filled with a vast, textured sky in shades of teal, blue, and white, suggesting clouds or mist. The overall mood is serene and contemplative.

O'HANLON CENTER FOR THE ARTS

ohanloncenter.org

"As fall settles over Mill Valley, we are drawn inward, to family, grounding, and tradition. At O'Hanlon Center for the Arts, our Day of the Dead altar gathers these threads, creating a space for remembrance, shared stories, and the celebration of life. A reminder that we belong together through our ancestors."

"Fall is my favorite time of year in Mill Valley, when the weather is perfect, the crowds thin out, and it's all about slowing down and enjoying time with friends and family."

Fawn Bailey | FAWN BAILEY ART | fawnbaileyart.com

"There are so many reasons to love Mill Valley in the fall. One of my favorite events, the Mill Valley Fall Arts Festival, brings artists and art lovers from all over to gather under the redwoods of Old Mill Park each September. It was the very first event I attended in Mill Valley and now, years later, I'm so fortunate to be able to share my art at this magical event. The fall holidays here with our children have also become such a time of bonding with our friends and neighbors."

Mill Valley Originals

You might be surprised how many big ideas started right here.

Mill Valley has long been a place where creative ideas take root and often grow far beyond its borders. Small startups become beloved local favorites, and these originals reflect a spirit of innovation grounded in community.

DIPSEA RACE

dipsea.org

First run in 1905, the Dipsea Race is the oldest trail race in the United States, and still one of its most iconic. The course climbs the famed 688 steps out of Mill Valley before winding over Mt. Tam and down to Stinson Beach. With its unique handicapped start and fiercely loyal following, the Dipsea is less about winning and more about legacy, grit, and belonging.

MILL VALLEY FILM FESTIVAL | mvff.com

Each fall, Mill Valley becomes a gathering place for storytellers. The Mill Valley Film Festival draws Hollywood A-list filmmakers, actors, and audiences from around the world, yet never loses its intimate, community feel. Presented by the California Film Institute, it's a place where global cinema meets local connection.

MILL VALLEY MURALS

millvalleymurals.com

Art lives out in the open here. Mill Valley Murals transforms walls into vibrant storytelling canvases, inviting artists to shape the visual identity of the town. Alleyways, buildings, and overlooked corners become moments of surprise and reflection. An evolving, open-air gallery woven into everyday life.

EQUATOR COFFEES | equatorcoffees.com

From its Marin roots, Equator has grown into a nationally recognized leader in sustainable coffee. Known for ethical sourcing and exceptional roasting, it continues to innovate while staying grounded in community. Its cafés serve as daily gathering places where conversations, connections, and ideas flow as easily as the coffee.

WOANDER | woander.store

The name is a clue: a blend of “wonder” and “wander,” pronounced like the latter. Part concept store, part creative play space, Woander brings together books, games, and thoughtfully chosen objects with immersive, story-driven experiences. At its Mill Valley shop, families gather to explore, create, and step into evolving worlds, making each visit feel like a small adventure.

THE HIVERY | thehivery.com

The Hivery started with a simple but radical idea: give women entrepreneurs a room of their own. What grew from that is a community workspace where businesses are built in the company of others, with shared tables, honest conversations, and programming that turns ambition into action. It's less of a co-working space, more of a creative coalition.

SWEETWATER MUSIC HALL

sweetwatermusichall.org

For decades, Sweetwater has been at the heart of Mill Valley's music scene. Today, it continues to evolve, welcoming Peet's Coffee into its space and extending its rhythm into the daytime. The nights have always belonged to live music. Now the mornings have somewhere to be too.

It All Started Here

These names may be familiar, but their roots might surprise you.

Which of the following took root in Mill Valley before growing far beyond our redwoods?

- | | | |
|--|---|--|
| ☐ Banana Republic | ☐ Autodesk | ☐ Men Are from Mars, Women Are from Venus |
| ☐ Smith & Hawken | ☐ Glassdoor | ☐ Bonnie Raitt |
| ☐ EO Products | ☐ Wilderness Trail Bikes | ☐ Zio Ziegler |

The Answer: All of the above! Mill Valley has long been a place where ideas take root and grow across business, technology, literature, music, visual art, and film.

Next Generation: Taking Root

Homegrown voices, making it happen

ELLA KENNEY

Founder of Mill Valley Gymnastics

This spring, I opened Mill Valley Gymnastics, a boutique gymnastics studio in the heart of Mill Valley. I now spend my days teaching, jumping, and tumbling around with local kiddos!

Free afternoon:

I never pass up a steak salad and hazelnut ice cream from Watershed, then a walk through Downtown Mill Valley and Old Mill Park, up Cascade Drive, and to the waterfall.

What I care about:

I care about helping children grow up active, curious, and present. Through my work coaching, I create a space where kids are empowered to be themselves, try new things, and play!

SULLIVAN GILLMORE

Tam High junior; artist, athlete, and founder of the Art and Design Club

Free afternoon:

If I had a free afternoon in Mill Valley, I would love to hike or run up Mount Tamalpais, bring some art supplies, and paint the beautiful view from the peak, overlooking the city of Marin, San Francisco, and the bay.

What I care about:

I care about mental health in the teen and school environment, especially high school junior year, which is extremely stressful and taxing. In response, the Art and Design club is working on a wellness mural in the wellness center of our school to hopefully bring joy and light to kids struggling with anxiety and mental health issues.

NICOLE LEARY

Mill Valley-raised artist focused on climate awareness

Free afternoon:

If I had a free afternoon in Mill Valley, I'd definitely hike Sun Trail, ending back in downtown where I'd sit and enjoy the bustling vibes and a refreshing Arnold Palmer from the Depot. I'd also invite my friends to meet me and paint with watercolors, chit chat, and maybe play a card game or two.

What I care about:

I've been passionate about climate change and educating people about it. I've been combining my love for art with this, creating pieces that reflect or incorporate climate change to get people thinking, talking, and more aware of these issues.

Mill Valley has always been shaped by people who show up, care deeply, and take action. We asked a handful of local young voices two questions:

If you had a free afternoon in Mill Valley, what should you not miss?

What's something you care about right now, and how are you acting on it?

Their answers reflect a community growing with intention, creativity, and heart.

MEELS (AMELIA EINHORN)

Folk americana singer-songwriter raised in Mill Valley

Free afternoon:

If I had a free afternoon in Mill Valley, I would walk downtown for a deli sandwich at Mill Valley Market, then head to Three Wells to sit on the rocks and enjoy the quiet woods. If time, I would drive up to Four Corners or the Bolinas-Fairfax Ridge to watch the sunset over the ocean.

What I care about:

Growing up here made me passionate about protecting our National Parks, especially with Muir Woods in our backyard. I started a video series, "Meels National Parks Service," and perform original songs in parks across the country to highlight their beauty and raise awareness about their protection.

ANGELINA MAUZY

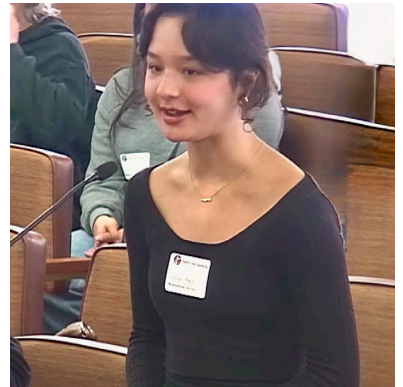

Tam High sophomore; climate change awareness through art

Free afternoon:

If you have a free afternoon in Mill Valley, be sure to check out the Mill Valley Public Library. It's a beautiful building and feels serene, close to the forest and near downtown. While you're there, also go to the plaza to see the different stores and find spots to relax in the shade.

What I care about:

Something I really care about is climate change. To act on it, I am creating pieces of artwork to express what I feel and how it should be represented more. I also take part in an internship focused on climate advocacy.

HELEN KAY

Tam High Senior, Student Trustee, Tamalpais Union High School District Board

Free afternoon:

If I had a free afternoon in Mill Valley, I'd stop by Equator Coffee. Every pastry and drink is delicious (what I wouldn't give to experience their almond croissant for the first time again)! While downtown, I would catch an evening show at the Throckmorton Theatre. You might see me there.

What I care about:

As a performer and student leader, I strive to unite our community. On stage, my focus is to connect the audience to the characters I portray; as a Student Trustee, I listen and learn from my peers at Tam, amplifying and sharing their stories within the district. In both roles, I am dedicated to fostering inclusive environments.

A Message from Fire Chief Christian D. Tubbs

Southern Marin Fire Protection District

Dear Mill Valley Community,

On behalf of the Southern Marin Fire Protection District, I am honored to serve as your Fire Chief. Our dedicated team of 91 professionals is committed to providing exceptional emergency response, prevention, and education to more than 41,000 residents. We take great pride in our mission to protect the safety and well-being of this community.

As we continue to adapt to evolving challenges, from wildfires to public health emergencies, we remain steadfast in our commitment to service.

We are grateful for your continued trust and support, and we look ahead with pride as we continue to serve and protect this remarkable community.

Sincerely,

Christian D. Tubbs
Fire Chief

5 Simple Steps to Get Ready

Disasters don't plan ahead, but you can.

Preparing now will help you and your household stay safe and recover more quickly. A few simple actions, like making a plan, packing essential supplies, and staying informed can make a real difference when it matters most.

Whether you stay (shelter in place) or go (evacuate), these tips will help you prepare.

Get Alerts

In a disaster, you need to know what to do, where to go, and when. Sign up to get alerts from trusted local agencies:

- AlertMarin notifies you when action is needed to stay safe
- Nixle provides local updates by ZIP code
- PG&E alerts notify you of potential public safety power outages (you can sign up even if you are not an account holder)

Make a Plan

- Know who you will rely on and who relies on you
- Establish an out-of-area contact and share your plan
- Write down important phone numbers in case your phone is lost or uncharged
- Choose a meeting place in case your family is separated

Pack a Go Bag

- Gather supplies and pack a bag for evacuation
- You may only have minutes to leave, so prepare your Go Bag now
- Each member of your household should have a Go Bag, including pets

Assemble a Stay Box

- Gather supplies to shelter safely at home
- Be prepared to stay in place for 5-7 days
- Store food, water, and extra medications
- Know how and when to turn off gas and water

Help Friends and Neighbors Get Ready

- Neighbors are often the first to help in an emergency
- Connect now, share information, and prepare together
- Join or start a Neighborhood Response Group
- Strong communities are more resilient during and after a disaster

Keep it simple

The ReadyMarin website offers practical information and checklists. Start with one small step, like packing a Go Bag for your pet or adding an extra jug of water to your weekly shopping. Learn More at ReadyMarin.org

GO BAG

- ☐ Wallet with ID, credit cards, and small bills
- ☐ Water bottle and snacks
- ☐ N95 mask
- ☐ Cell phone charger and battery bank

 - ☐ House deed or rental agreement
- ☐ Small first aid kit
- ☐ Copy of your evacuation checklist
- ☐ Extra eyeglasses and hearing aid batteries
- ☐ Family photos and important documents on a portable drive
- ☐ One change of clothes (especially socks and underwear)

STAY BOX

- ☐ Water (1 gallon per person per day)
- ☐ Non-perishable food with pop-top lids
- ☐ First aid kit with manual
- ☐ Flashlight or headlamp with extra batteries
- ☐ Fire extinguisher (store in the kitchen)
- ☐ Warm clothing and sturdy shoes
- ☐ Portable toilet or bucket with trash bags
- ☐ Hand sanitizer and disposable wipes
- ☐ Radio (battery, solar-powered, or hand crank)
- ☐ Sleeping bags and blankets
- ☐ Tools: wrench, duct tape, hammer, screwdriver, scissors, and gloves
- ☐ Camping supplies (tent, stove)
- ☐ Manual can opener
- ☐ Rope, bungee cords, and tarp
- ☐ Medications (7-day supply)

VISITOR FRIENDLY THINGS TO DO:

A Beach, a Mountain, and a Little Park

Stinson Beach

Visitors to Stinson Beach experience the pleasures of this quiet beach community. Whether hiking, enjoying a picnic, exploring the town, or relaxing on the beach, people continue to find Stinson Beach a great place to escape from the frantic pace of everyday life, just as it has been for over a century.

Mount Tam State Park

Just north of San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge, Mount Tamalpais State Park rises majestically from the heart of Marin County. Its deep canyons and sweeping hillsides are cloaked with cool redwood forests, oak woodlands, open grasslands, and sturdy chaparral. The breathtaking vistas from Mount Tamalpais's upper mountain include the Farallon Islands 25 miles out to sea, the Marin County hills, San Francisco Bay and City, the East Bay, and Mount Diablo.

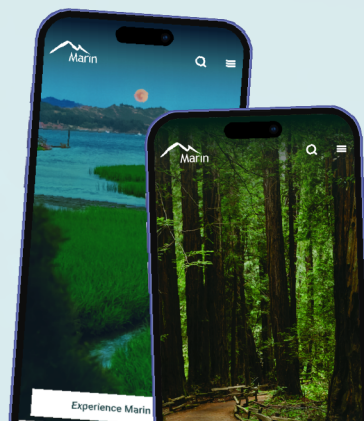

Muir Woods

Visitors can stroll along the forest floor on marked paths viewing interpretive displays in this magnificent, natural setting. Hiking trails wind through the forest, but no dogs, bicycles, picnics or camping are permitted. The park is open from 8:00am to sunset, daily including holidays. The Muir Woods Café and Gift Shop are open from 9:00am to 30 minutes prior to park closure.

PLAN EFFORTLESSLY. EXPLORE CONFIDENTLY. EXPERIENCE FULLY.
